Senators Ask Facts on U. S. Arms Might

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate asked defense leaders today for the facts "with the bark off" on the nation's military might and outer space program. Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.), opening public hearings with a subcommittee, wanted a "plain, unvarnished and unadorned" account of what has happened to the defense as an issue. "We want to know where we stand—and this is a question to which there should be a clear-cut answer," Johnson said. "We are not concerned with rosy optimism or with finding scapegoats. We want the facts—with the bark off, if you please."

Johnson said his group wants to find out: "First, is the United States doing everything it reasonably can and should do to insure the defense of this country and the free world against military aggression? Second, is the United States doing everything it reasonably can and should do in the exploration of outer space?"

Johnson asked witnesses during the first two days of the hearings to dispense with prepared statements. Hearings today and Friday will be open, but the subcommittee plans to hold classified sessions at times during later testimony.

Members of the new Senate Space Committee, which Johnson also heads, were asked to participate. Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy and Gen. Nathan F. Twining, head of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, were to be leadoff witnesses.

No Gaps in Defense Says McElroy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy testified today there are no serious gaps in the nation's defense but that range has been sacrificed in order to push the Polaris missile program.

The defense secretary also upheld the administration's decision to cancel production of the Regulus II and Snark missiles on grounds they had been overtaken by scientific advances.

McElroy was the first witness at the opening of Senate hearings to determine where the United States stands in defense, missiles and space in comparison with the Soviet Union.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, was presiding. He told McElroy, and Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, that the investigators "want the facts—with the bark off, if you please."

Four Members Family Shot By Youth, 16

MORAVIA, N.Y. (AP)—A series of family arguments and the spanking of a 16-year-old boy led the boy to kill four members of his family Wednesday night, state police said.

Troopers said John Jayne, a husky teenager, killed his father, Willis, 60; his mother, Amber, 55; a brother, Willard, 19; and a sister, Elizabeth Ann, 13, with a shotgun.

John, 5 feet 9 and 155 pounds, was charged with first-degree murder. He entered a mandatory innocent plea before Judge Justice Richard Pearce in Cayuga County Court at Auburn in central New York, early today.

Inspector William Driscoll said John, a pupil at Moravia High School, told him he had shot the family because of "an accumulation of family arguments."

Texarkana Bypass Route Is Located

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The route of a highway bypass at Texarkana was approved by the Arkansas Highway Commission yesterday.

The proposed U-shaped bypass would allow motorists from the west, south and east to avoid driving through the city if they wished.

Half the bypass would be in Arkansas and the other half in Texas. In Arkansas, the route would connect on the north with Interstate Highway 30 just east of Texarkana, extend due south to near U.S. Highway 71, then extend straight west into Texas to U.S. Highway 59 and north from there to connect again with Interstate Highway 30.

Motorists traveling on the interstate highway and on U.S. Highways 67 and 71 in Arkansas and 59, 67 and 62 in Texas could use the route to go around Texarkana.

The commission said no steps would be taken toward development of the route until the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads approves the location.

Fire Destroys a Gin at Cash

Looney said he discovered the fire when he returned to make a routine check after completing ginning operations during the day.

Causes of the blaze were not determined.

Houses near the 30-year-old gin building were not damaged.

Drag River for Body of Man

MARIANNA, Ark. (AP)—Sheriff's officers and volunteers dragged the Langauge River today in a hunt for Joe Chivers, 35, Lee County welfare director who reportedly has been missing since Friday.

Sheriff S. C. Langston said dragging operations probably would be abandoned sometime this afternoon. He said the river was rising at the rate of about two feet a day.

Chivers was last seen at his office here about 5 p. m. Friday the sheriff said. Later a boy said he saw Chivers get out of his automobile near the river.

Discovery of the parked car on a road near the river was reported to Langston Monday. It was parked at the spot where the boy reported seeing Chivers Friday night.

Langston said some clothing was found in the car.

Chivers, who formerly lived at Conway, came here last month from Newport.

President Again Calls for Lower Price Supports

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower announced plans today for a food-for-peace drive aimed to turn farm surpluses into a major new weapon for the world's arsenal.

The project was disclosed in a special farm message to Congress which otherwise renewed with fresh emphasis the President's call for lower price supports.

Eisenhower said "present price support programs are 'excessively expensive' and 'crop control programs don't work.'"

The food-for-peace plan came up in Eisenhower's discussion of efforts to find expanded markets and new outlets for farm products.

"In these efforts there is an immediate and direct bending of the cause of world peace," Eisenhower said. "Food can be a powerful instrument for all the free world in building a durable peace."

Eisenhower related that in the last four years this country has provided friendly food-surplus shipments with four billion dollars worth of farm products through special export programs. He went on:

"I am setting steps in motion to explore anew with other surplus-producing nations all practical means of utilizing the various agricultural surpluses of each in the interest of reinforcing peace and the wellbeing of friendly peoples throughout the world."

In short, using food for peace.

There was no expansion of the plans, which parallel ideas frequently advanced in Congress. Democratic critics of the administration at the Capitol have contended that this nation has been missing the chance to use its surplus to promote "American interests abroad as well as to aid backward areas."

Citing the big accumulation of surpluses and the large outlays of federal funds on farm programs, the message said "the need to reduce the incentives for excess production has been exploited in the three special messages on agriculture which he has previously sent."

Eisenhower said expenditures under present programs go largely to a relatively few big farmers.

Dispatched to Congress along with the message was a memorandum from Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson giving specific details regarding operation of present programs—particularly those affecting wheat, rice, tobacco and cotton—and outlining possible changes in farm laws.

Eisenhower took notice of Democratic proposals for changes in farm programs and cautioned against adopting some of them.

"Difficulties of the present program should not drive us to programs which would involve us in even greater trouble," he said.

"I refer to direct payment programs, which could soon make virtually all farm people dependent for a large share of their income, upon annual appropriations from the federal Treasury."

"I refer also to various multiple price programs, which would tax the American consumer to permit sale for feed and export at lower prices."

In general, Eisenhower's recommendations would make no drastic changes in present programs—only allow the Agriculture Department more flexibility in setting price supports for products required to be supported by the government. Under such authority lower government outlays would be expected to follow.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Adlai Stevenson says he is impressed by the way Edmund G. Brown has started out as California's governor.

Brown was elected to his first term last November.

Stevenson told reporters Tuesday he has heard a lot of talk about Brown as a possible 1960 Democratic candidate for president or vice president. Brown was present at the news conference.

But Stevenson "didn't" speculate on who the candidate might be. Stevenson said Brown and Adlai are not in the running.

A reporter asked Stevenson about a Stevenson-Brown ticket.

"I'd be in favor of Brown," replied Stevenson, "but I have great misgivings about the other fellow."

President Again

Eisenhower sends to Congress today a message calling for prompt changes in federal farm aid programs that would ease costs to taxpayers and help halt continued production of crop surpluses.

Few specific legislative proposals were executed. Aides and some GOP party leaders had advised Eisenhower to hand the problem to the Democratic-controlled Congress, with the suggestion that it come up with the answer.

This advice was based on the contention that ever since Democrats regained control of Congress in 1953, major administration farm proposals and Secretary of Agriculture Benson have been prime targets of the opposition.

In the past, both Eisenhower and Benson have urged lower farm supports. Congress has authorized reductions for some crops but not to the extent sought by the administration.

The message was expected to put major emphasis on problems affecting wheat, tobacco and peanuts. Probable recommendations include another year's extension of the farm surplus disposal program, an extension of the Sugar Control Act expiring at the end of 1960, a change in the standard for determining price supports, and an enlargement of the present soil bank program.

The administration is content to stand pat for this year on present programs affecting cotton, rice, corn, other feed grains, oilseed crops, livestock, dairy products, and fruits and vegetables.

Eisenhower sees wheat as the No. 1 farm problem because of the accumulation of supplies already sufficient to supply domestic markets for 2 1/2 years and the prospect that surpluses may grow even larger.

The message was expected to outline two possible courses for wheat—continuation of price sup-

Russian Cage Team Humbles Americans

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — The Soviet Union finally has caught up with the United States in basketball.

For the first time, a Soviet team has beaten the Americans at the game which was originated in the United States.

It happened Wednesday night when the Russians walloped the Americans 22-37 in the game that generally was expected to decide the championship of the World Basketball Tournaments.

The Russians were elated by the victory.

"This victory will live in our memories for a long time," said Alexander Gornelski, one of the Soviet coaches. "Our defense kept those American snipers No. 12 and 13 (Jerry Vayda and Dick Welsh) from having time to shoot. Therefore they couldn't score as they usually do."

The Air Force All Stars, representing the United States, had been unimpressive in maintaining a perfect record through the preliminary round robin and their first three games of the final round robin championship play. Wednesday night they looked even worse as they bowed to the tall Russians.

The Soviet victory meant they can clinch the championship by playing Nationalist China Friday night. Even if they lose to the Chinese, they would take the title on the basis of goal average.

Wednesday night's victory was their fifth in as many starts. All other teams have lost at least one game. The U.S. plays Chile to night and dangerous Brazil Friday.

However, the Russians have said they will not play the Chinese because of political reasons. If they don't they will forfeit all previous games.

In that event the tournament winner probably will be decided when the U.S. plays Brazil. Brazil matched the Americans' 3-1 record Wednesday night by beating Puerto Rico 99-71.

Highlights included: Passage by the Senate, 18-16, of a bill permitting Arkansas State College in Jonesboro to change its name to Arkansas State University. This bill has drawn the fire of University of Arkansas backers.

Introduction in the House of a bill setting up machinery for a reopening of schools closed to prevent integration.

Approval by the Senate a bill authorizing the state to take over and operate the Army-Navy Hospital in Hot Springs as a regional and national rehabilitation center.

Brief debate marked the Senate's consideration of the Arkansas State College bill. Sen. Fred H. Stafford of Marked Tree, one of the sponsors, admonished his colleagues not to "stand in the way of progress in education."

Sen. Clifford Wade of Fayetteville, one of the principal opponents of the name change, said "this is still a poor state. We have not so much money for education."

Both sides agreed the bill may have a harder time when it is called up for action in the House.

The school reopening proposal was introduced by Pulaski Rep. Sterling Cockrell Jr., who said he hadn't discussed the idea with the governor. His plan would provide that after a school has been closed six months under the state's school closing laws, 20 per cent of school election could petition the governor for a new referendum.

The bill, however, would not require school board to re-open the schools.

This proposal was one of 102 which the House received or acted

Kentucky's Rupp Goes After Win No. 600 Tonight

By DON WEISS

Associated Press Sports Writer

Adolph Rupp, who gets what he goes after 88 per cent of the time, tries for victory No. 600 at Kentucky tonight and another milestone in his brilliant 20-year career as a college basketball coach.

The 57-year-old Rupp has coached 703 games, all as head man of the Wildcats. His 599-104 record figures out to a winning percentage of .853 — by far the best of any coach over a period of years at a major school.

Georgia's Bulldogs form the opposition in the game at Lexington that can advance Rupp to a 600 club inhabited by only three other coaches — Ed Diddle of Western Kentucky, Hank Iba of Oklahoma State and Eddie Adams of Texas Southern.

The Baron comes up to the mile stone at an absolute peak with a team that ranks No. 1 in the nation with 161 victories and looks capable of defending the unprecedented fourth national collegiate title Rupp and the Cats bagged last season.

Rated teams: Bradley, No. 9, Seattle, No. 13, and St. Bonaventure, No. 16, fattened their records in features of Wednesday's program.

Bradley, holding on for another crack at Cincinnati in the Missouri Valley Conference, made it 13-2 with a 58-55 whipping of Toledo. St. Bonaventure scored 21 points, 50-46 Dean Smith scored 21 points, Seattle 18-2 against collegiate competition and St. Bonaventure, which lost its nine-game unbeaten string last Saturday, started a new one with a 74-56 decision over St. Francis (N.Y.). It was St. Francis' 11th straight loss.

Ken Fairfield and sophomore star Tom Stith combined for 47 points for the Bonics, with Fairfield netting 28.

Surprising Michigan got 22 points apiece from John Tidwell and Bill Burton in rolling to its 10th triumph in 12 tries, 68-63 over Washington of St. Louis. Dayton, now 11-4, downed Canisius 65-53.

Xavier of Ohio downed Georgetown (DC) 70-62.

In the East, All-America Don Henson scored 22 points and three Pitt teammates joined him in double figures for an 84-62 romp over Geneva (Pa.). Fordham's 10th victory in 13 games was a 93-67 whipping of Wagner.

Muhlenberg nipped Rutgers 67-66 and Brown's Ivy League warriors, 67-47, decision over Northeastern. The University of Hawaii shocked Southern California 60-56. Army scored a 60-42 defeat of Albright.

Highlights of Legislature on Wednesday

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus' new anti-integration proposals had a clear-cut "go ahead" in the Arkansas Legislature today.

The House, without comment, approved 90-0 the governor's bill to permit direct payment of public funds to students for use at schools of their choice.

Also yesterday, the Senate gave a unanimous 33-0 approval to the governor's proposal that public school teachers be permitted to transfer to accredited private schools without losing their state retirement benefits.

The third bill in the governor's package is a proposal to submit a constitutional amendment in 1960, general election writing the student payment provision into the constitution. This probably will not be acted upon until late in the session.

Action on the two proposals came as both the House and Senate put in busy days on old and new legislation.

Highlights included:

Passage by the Senate, 18-16, of a bill permitting Arkansas State College in Jonesboro to change its name to Arkansas State University.

This bill has drawn the fire of University of Arkansas backers.

EXOTIC—This tumbled is one of seven rare Egyptian Galgos, believed to be the first ever born in the United States. Their Washington, D.C., owner says they're big, graceful dogs when full grown. It is believed that Galgos were used as models for the stone dogs guarding ancient tombs and temples in Egypt.

Central Negro Students to Be Honored

NEW YORK (AP)—Five of the nine Negro students who integrated Little Rock's Central High School will be honored by the New York Civil Liberties Union here Feb. 12.

They will receive the Florina Lasker Civil Liberties Award at the New York group's annual luncheon on Lincoln's birthday.

The five students are those remaining in Little Rock of the nine who entered Central High in 1957 under protection of Army troops. They are Elizabeth Eckford, Thelma Mothershead, Melba Pattillo, Carlota Wells and Jefferson Thomas.

Charles A. Stepmann, the organization's chairman, said Miss Eckford and Thomas will attend the luncheon to accept the $1,000 award on behalf of all five.

The award is given annually to an individual or group the organization feels displayed "consistent and outstanding courage and integrity in the defense of civil liberties."

It is named for the late Florina Lasker, one-time chairman of the New York Civil Liberties Committee, predecessor to the NYCLU, which is now a branch of the American Civil Liberties Union.

Stepmann said the five Little Rock students were selected "in recognition of their courage and dignity in the face of prejudice and humiliation—and their decision to remain in their community—to participate in an integrated public school system, a right which is now denied them."

Of the nine Negroes who attended Central High in 1957-58 school year, three have accepted scholarships to other schools and one was graduated at the end of last term.

More Building Cash for Children's Colony

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Children's Colony at Conway will be able to spend more money this fiscal year than had been anticipated for construction and additional bed space.

A change in the colony's 1958-

Annual Mother's March for Dimes Is Tonight

59 budget was approved by the Legislative Joint Budget Committee yesterday, making the additional money available.

The committee said the colony could spend $10,000 of its $400,000 budget for salaries and divide the remaining $390,000 equally between construction and bed space.

David B. Ray Jr., colony director, had asked the committee Monday to approve the salary figure and earmark the remainder for construction and maintenance. But after the committee's action Wednesday, Ray said he was pleased.

"The main thing was, we did not want to lose the money because there is so much to do at the colony," he said.

The $273,000 allotted for salaries could not have been used because the colony won't be completed until July and is not now fully staffed.

The Union Labor party polled nearly 85,000 votes in the Arkansas gubernatorial election of 1886.

THE CHAIRMAN and three of her assistants earlier this month attended the First Lady's coffee in Little Rock, given for the statewide organization of women working for the Mother's March for Dimes. Hope's Mother's March will be held tonight. Attendees, Mrs. Dorothea Camp, Mrs. Margaret Martin, Chairman of the Mother's March, and Mrs. Peggy Hughes.

Mikoyan Back Home Telling About U. S.

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Editor

Anastas Mikoyan, a Russian deputy premier and one of the Kremlin's top spokesmen, arrived back in Moscow this week in time for the 21st special congress of the Soviet Communist Party.

He was returning from a visit to the United States, during which he:

- Commented favorably on Americans' ability to drink vodka.
- Commented unfavorably on U.S. foreign policy, particularly as regards Berlin and the U.S. ban on shipment of strategic goods to the Soviet Union.

—Reacted with considerable irritation when prevented from placing U.S. troop landings in Lebanon in the same category with Soviet deceit and butchery in crushing the revolution in Hungary.

The first and third points were incidental to the main purposes of his visit, which probably were two.

—Trade First Objective

Mikoyan, as the Kremlin's foremost expert on merchandising, probably had an expansion of trade as his first objective.

One of the projects which the party congress will be asked to rubber stamp is Premier Nikita Khrushchev's ambitious seven-year plan for the economic development of the Soviet Union.

The announced purpose of the plan is ultimately to make the Soviet Union superior to the United States in everything from production of milk to steel.

Thus Mikoyan was in the market here for a wide variety of products ranging from entire chemical plants, to pipelines to credits.

And thus, to his sour reaction when the State Department blocked his project.

"The cold war in the State Department is continuing," he said. To which the State Department replied: "Folious."

Mikoyan's second purpose here is more conjectural but may have met with greater success.

Force Summit Meeting

A diplomatic view of the sudden pressure applied by the Soviet Union two months ago to the Berlin problem is that Soviets were acting with an ultimate view to forcing another meeting at the summit.

There is no belief that the Communists deliberately were inviting a war when they announced that in six months they would turn air, land and sea controls of East Germany over to the East Germans.

But neither there is any confidence that a war could not break out over the Berlin issue.

The West is determined that West Berlin remain free and that Allied forces retain their rights to remain and be supplied there.

Danger Remains

But there remains the danger that even after his visit to the United States, Mikoyan and other Kremlin leaders remain unconvinced of this determination.

A view held by many European diplomats is that the United States refuses to recognize history. They believe the Soviet Union waited to take action in Hungary until after it was convinced the United States would not take sides. Thus, they argue, by doing nothing, we placed Hungary in the Soviet bloc for all time to come.

They believe the same argument may apply to Berlin. Again the Soviets may be waiting. When they see no visible signs of action, they may believe the time is right to move again.

School Bill Taken Up by the House

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas House today received a bill to set up machinery for returning the jurisdiction of schools closed against integration to local school boards.

The measure would require the Governor to call a special election on the question of returning control to a board upon receipt of a petition bearing names of at least 20 per cent of the qualified voters who voted in the previous school election.

The effect of the bill would be to create a way by which districts could reclaim jurisdiction from the chief executive to decide for themselves the integration question.

The petition could not be filed until the school had been closed for six months.

Pulaski Rep. Sterling Cockrill, sponsor of the bill, said its only purpose was to give the people a chance to vote on return of their schools to district control.

Cockrill said the law under which Gov. Orval E. Faubus closed the Little Rock high schools Sept. 12 made no provisions for the people to vote for the return of control.

Only Little Rock schools would be affected by Cockrill's bill at present.

Under Cockrill's bill if the school board — by vote of the people — should regain control of the schools, it would be within the discretion of the school board whether to keep them closed or reopen them.

"Nothing contained in this bill should be construed to require the board to reopen the schools," Cockrill said.

The legislator said he had not discussed the measure with Faubus but had talked with some of his advisors.

"They objected to it," he said. "But their objections were mainly to the fact that the school-closing law is under litigation and this bill would amend that law while it is still in the courts."

In other House action, a bill to regulate the operations of trading stamp companies went into the hopper today.

Could Use a Few Honest Cowhands

By FRANCIS STILLEY

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP)—New York City's neighboring Westchester County could sure use a few honest-to-gosh cowhands.

Five Black Angus steers have been on the loose since Dec. 20, and folks are beginning to get kind of put out because nobody can catch 'em.

"They've been roaming over what seems like half the county giving people quite a fright, messing up lawns and chewing up prize shrubbery."

Great posers of police and citizens have been after the critters day after day with cars, airplanes, helicopters, horses, walkie-talkies and tranquilized alfalfa hay.

But the steers are just as far from the corral as they ever were. Every time anybody gets near, they just go high-tailing off (or somewhere else. Then frantic phone calls begin coming from people there.

Several times the local cowpokes have gotten pretty close. That's all they got, though, except for frustration and bramble scratches in scrambling away from the stampede.

One police officer had to take to a tree when a roundup was tried a few days ago. Another time a fellow didn't take off in time and wound up with a dislocated shoulder.

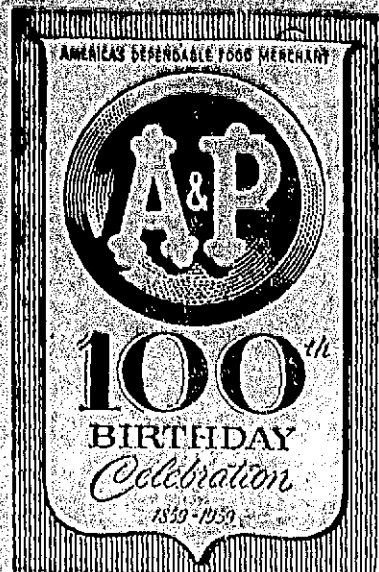

Six of the steers got away from the Norda Experimental Farm at the start. One was killed not long afterward. Officers brought out their heavy artillery when he went on a rampage during a corraling attempt.

That's what a lot of folks would like to see done with the rest of them.

WILD SUMMIT

THE STORY: Gil Yeager seeks aid in reclaiming his ranch from the powerful cattle combine. With Jed Mims, Gil pays a visit to several small ranchers who have been driven off the range by the combine.

Chapter XVI

Jed Mims now spoke up again. "A couple of things you should know about, Alec. This morning in town, Brick Rand absorbed the hikin' of his life. Later, out at the old Lazy Y, Mitch Starker got spurred raw and Meade Bastian was told off, good! Gil did all those things. Mebbe such will help answer your questions."

Trezevant, his intent glance still on Yeager, stirred and brightened. His tone ran milder.

"Some marks on your face like you'd been hit. I was wondering about them. So you manhandled Rand, eh?"

"Some," Yeager said briefly. "Some!" exclaimed Jed Mims. "Boy, you know better than that. I never saw a man worse whipped."

The harsh lines of Alec Trezevant's face relaxed into the ghost of a smile.

"I'd like to have seen that—I surely would," Brick Rand, he always figured himself a bucko boy, real mean and hostile."

"He's turned some fat and soft," Yeager said. "When I finished with Rand, I was well whipped down, myself. Starker rode in close and tried to use a spur on me, which he'd probably managed if Jed hadn't stepped into things just then. It's not an idea I like, being spurred. So when I had the chance later on, I gave him some of his own medicine."

Alec Trezevant dropped his glance to the fire, the musing half smile still on his lips. He nodded his head slowly up and down, as though visualizing something he liked and approved of.

He sucked at his pipe, found it dead, leaned forward and knocked the dottle from it against a piece of wood.

"You get ready to move back on your place," he said. "I'll ride with you."

Yeager drew a deep breath. This was what he'd hoped for, not only because Alec Trezevant, old as he was, would be wicked in a fight, but because his move could influence others.

"I'll be happy to have you along, Alec," Yeager turned to Swayze. "How about you, Jack?" Swayze pushed to his feet. "I'll talk it over with Hickerson and Blalock and let you know tomorrow."

He moved off into the dark and soon the soft mutter of hoofs laid a diminishing echo through the night.

Harvey Plume, jerk and lose and sulky, moved over to where Anita Trezevant, flushed with her dishwashing chore, had settled down cross-legged on a blanket back at the edge of the firelight.

Unobtrusive and retiring as she seemed, there was spirit and fire in her, as Harry Plume found out. Meade Bastian's low-toned remark, he would have dropped-down beside her, but she repelled him with a quick, curt retort which straightened him up again and sent a flush of anger through his cheeks.

For a moment he stood hesitant as though searching out words for reply. Before he could find them, Alec Trezevant's deep growl hit at him.

"You don't seem to be agreeing with anybody, Harry. You better drift."

With a new day's sunlight beginning to spill down across the crest of the Seminoles, Meade Bastian rode up the lane between the fenced pastures of the Bene

Disc Jockey in 200th Hour Without Sleep

By ROBERT M. FARRINGTON

NEW YORK (AP)—A young and comparatively unknown disc jockey stands today on the threshold of an unmatched medical achievement—200 sleepless hours under constant scientific watch.

Doctors and psychiatrists who have been watching him, and helping him fight off collapse, think Peter Tripp, 32, is a medical rarity. They also admire him for his driving determination.

Without it, they say, nothing could have kept his eyes open so long. Tripp's personality has changed what seemed like another publicly stunt into an interesting scientific experiment.

"There has never been such a study made before," says Dr. Louis Jolyn West, director of psychiatry for the University of Oklahoma Medical School. "This man has been under 24-hour psychiatric observation for over a week. Every utterance, every attitude during this great stress has been noted down. There is nothing we haven't measured. We know him through and through. And I'll tell you something, he's a man."

Tripp, who plays records nightly for three hours over radio station WMGM, started it all by saying he would stay awake 200 hours to draw attention to the March of Dimes campaign for funds. Further, he would spend his time in a glass-enclosed recording booth in the heart of garish Times Square.

Tripp's 200 hours—8 1/2 days—will be up at 7:14 p.m. EST tonight. Even if he falls short of this goal, West and Williams know of no one else who has gone as long as Tripp without sleep under minute-by-minute supervision.

What does it matter? What do you gain from watching a man stay awake?

"Medically, there is great interest in sleep deprivation," West says. "It induces a kind of mental disturbance which can be reversed. Mental health research is handicapped by the difficulty of trying to produce the disease in a laboratory for study."

He said no doctor is willing to produce a real mental illness in a person so as to study the disease. Sleep loss, however, can illustrate some effects of mental illness.

There are numerous other scientific aspects of the study, most of them having to do with the brain and the central nervous system. Williams presides over the instrument-packed room in the Hotel Astor to which Tripp is steered from his Times Square booth every few hours. A doctor and a psychiatric nurse are at his elbow night and day.

The practice of "lallooing" was known to the ancient Hebrews and was forbidden by the Mosaic law.
